

As near as I can tell, this is a Cellar Spider. Since I am not sure of this ID, I won't attempt a long life study. Suffice to say that I'm glad that the camera was handy and, together, we managed to take some photos before he/she got bored and swung out of sight. Since I had only small collection of photos, I added a few blossoms from the flower beds

